

THE DEERFIELD VALLEY PILGRIMAGE WALK

LOCAL ACCOMMODATIONS

The Deerfield Valley abounds in inns, B&Bs, ski lodges and motels. Mid-September is a good time to find lodgings because it is just before the foliage season begins in earnest. Accommodations are especially abundant in Wilmington and Dover, but the surrounding towns have much to offer as well. Pilgrims may wish to focus their attention on the village portion of Wilmington, where the shops and restaurants are concentrated. In addition, the pilgrimage begins in the village and that is where drivers may wish to leave their cars over the weekend. (Transportation back to cars is provided by the pilgrimage on each day.) Below we have listed a few places for your consideration. More information and choices are available from the Southern Vermont Chamber of Commerce at 21 West Main St., Wilmington VT 05363, 802-464-8092.

An option for large families or groups would be house rentals, normally about $300/day, which each house sleeping 8 to 16 people or more. Since Wilmington and Dover are ski resort towns, most of the housing stock is owned by weekenders and those who rent to weekenders, so this type of accommodation is usually readily available. You can find them on the Internet. Feel free to contact us at vtpilgrim@gmail.com if you have any questions.
